An Island Grieves

Just a few days shy of Halloween, when the island's school kids were on vacation, an 11-year-old girl named Mina was on an excursion to the natural pools in Petit Cul-de-Sac, when the day turned tragic. More details in this issue of The Weekly, but in a nutshell, the entire island of Saint Barth was shocked by this turn of events. The girl's mother is a teacher at the middle school where Mina was a student. The news rippled through the community and had a chilling effect. Hundreds of people paid their respects at a service last Friday at the Anglican Church, with every seat taken and the crowd filling the garden and spilling out onto the street. Father Charles Vere Nicholl shared his compassion with the congregation, and one hopes his comforting words offered some solace to the family and their friends.

All of this happening on a local level just as the island opens for the season. The 14th edition of the Gourmet Festival is this week. And due to bad weather, the postponed celebration of Piteå Day and the Gustavialoppet, part of an annual salute to Sweden, now scheduled for November 19 & 20. The Saint Barth Sunday Market will now take place on November 13 and is a great place to chat with friends while making your purchases.

For the moment, the natural pools in Petit Cul-de-Sac remain off limits to the public, and a decision has yet to be made about how to secure the site. If the site reopens, and you decide to hike over there, be as careful as possible. The same is true at "washing machine," and all of the island's beaches. If the seas are rough, maybe it's better to wait for a calmer day. Better safe than sorry!

Eleven Guest Chefs For 9th Gourmet Festival

The 9th edition of the Saint-Barth Gourmet Festival opens on November 8 and runs through November 13, 2022. Eleven starred chefs will add their names to the already long list of acclaimed talents that have been in residence in Saint Barth for previous editions of the festival and created dishes to delight all diners.

As in past years, the idea of the Gourmet Festival is that each chef is invited by a hotel or restaurant to conceive special menus for a series of four exceptional dinners. They also combine their signature dishes with recipes comprising local products, with an eye toward promoting the island's heritage.

While diners in Saint Barth set out to discover new culinary experiences, competitions will also be organized throughout the Festival. One is for bartenders (Saint Barth Bartender Contest), which takes place on Thursday, November 10 at the Cheval Blanc Hotel in Flamands, with another for local chefs (Saint Barth Chefs Challenge), and a third for youngsters that is held in front of the Collectivité (Les Petites Toques). In addition, café waiters won't want to miss the traditional race which crowns the most skillful and rapid. That race starts in front of La Cantina on Friday, November 11 at 7pm.

Pascale Minarro-Baudoin, president of the CTTSB, notes: "I am especially happy that for the first time in the history of this festival, the chefs are committed to create at least one dish using local products so that they can discover, and share with their guests, the richness of our island."

Tragedy At The Natural Pool In Petit-Cul-de-Sac

Mina, an 11-year-old girl, tragically disappeared on Tuesday, October 25 at the natural pools in Petit-Cul-de-Sac, shocking the entire population of Saint Barthélemy.

This tragic story will be remembered for many years in the collective memory of the island. On Tuesday, October 25, as 11-year-old Mina visited the site of the natural pools in Petit-Cul-de-Sac, in the company of adults and other children, she was swept away by a strong wave. Caught by the strength of the swirling current in a deep, underwater chasm, the little girl disappeared in the space of several seconds.

Over the next four days, all possible measures—equipment and human—were deployed at the site of the natural pools to try and find the child's body. The territorial rescue and fire brigade, professional divers from Saint Martin and Guadeloupe, a civil security helicopter, the crew from the St Barth SNSM rescue boat, aerial and underwater drones: the Territorial Collectivité called upon every possible means to find the little girl.

On Friday, October 28, the child's body was finally located by use of an underwater robot loaned to the search teams by a private individual. The body is stuck in a narrow cavity at a depth of more than five meters. As fire chief Christophe Laurens explains, it is impossible for a human to reach the victim. A few hours later, early evening, the rescue teams and the Collectivité admitted that they would not be able to extract the body from the cavity. It was thus decided to abandon the rescue operations.

This decision, every bit as tragic as the accident that happened four days earlier, further accentuates the emotional response of the population of Saint Barthélemy. A population that spontaneously mobilized as soon word spread about the disappearance of the child on October 25. Over the next four days, many residents of the island did all they could to help the rescue teams try and find the little girl.

A memorial service for Mina was held on Friday, November 4 at the Anglican Church in Gustavia.

For the time being, access to the site of the natural pools in Petit-Cul-de-Sac remains off limits to the public by territorial decree. The Collectivité of Saint Barthélemy has not yet issued a statement about future security measures for the site.

New Traffic Patterns; New Traffic Circle On The Drawing Board

Drivers coming from Saint Jean are no longer permitted to turn left into the driveway for Super U, across from the airport.

For the moment, there are only a few modifications to the traffic patterns in St Barth. Yet these are a harbinger of things to come, as the new territorial council continues to improve the flow of traffic on the island's roads.

The first change was new signage that informs all drivers of their speed as they descend the hill from Coupe Gorge toward the small traffic circle near Villa Créole in Saint Jean. There is also a new, solid white line that indicates a no-passing zone along the entire length of the curve where a 25-year-old on a quad was killed a few months ago.

For less dramatic reasons, two additional traffic modifications have been implemented: one at Super U; the second leaving the parking lot at the airport. These changes means that drivers coming from Saint Jean cannot turn left to go to Super U; and those leaving the parking lot at the airport are also no longer able to turn left. They must all continue as far as the traffic circle at La Tourmente and come back in the direction of Saint Jean to turn right for the supermarket or continue on their way.

To leave the road that leads to Super U, after respecting the Stop sign, drivers can turn left or right onto route 209A. These new rules are but temporary, as the Collectivité plans to create a new traffic circle to replace these intersections.

Wimco St Barth Properties: A New Era In Villa Rentals

Two of the island's largest and longest-tenured villa rental agencies officially merged on October 1, 2022 into a single company under the new name Wimco St Barth Properties. The original companies, which both trace their start back to the 1980's, now operate as one at La Savane complex across from the airport in St Jean. "Our merged concierge teams and villa owner relations staff will now be working together in St Jean," says Stiles Bennet, the US-based president of the new entity. As he points out, the new company is 100% focused on villa rentals.

"Wimco St Barth Properties (WSBP) will now represent approximately 380 private villas for rent on St Barth, a portfolio that offers a tremendous range of options for our clients," Bennet adds. "The company's combined client base consists mainly of US residents who vacation in St Barth one time a year."

One of the goals of the new company is to make the lives of the villa owners and managers easier, with one point of contact for reservations and accounting, and a larger concierge service to liaise with housekeepers to insure smooth check-ins and check-outs. "In addition, our parent company, Nocturne Villas, has made significant investments in our technology stack, which will improve the productivity of the reservations department and our local concierge operations," points out Bennet. Other managers in the new company's US office include Anne-Marie Caye, director of sales, Donovan White, director of IT, Tim Dutra, controller, and Michael Bowers, operations manager. The management team in St Barth includes David Thyssen, director, Florian Solimaic, head concierge, and Benoit Meesmacher, controller and gerant.

"The new company is committed to continuing its support of good works in St Barth," notes Bennet. "We will continue as lead sponsors of the St Barth Gourmet Festival, the Caribbean Rum Awards, The Bucket, and also the St Barth Music and Film Festivals. The company also is committed to year-round support for St Barth Essential and the youth sailing program of the St Barth Yacht Club." On a related note, WSBP will continue to fund operations of the online forum, www.sbhonline, a non-commercial digital community of St Barth devotees.

While this new company, Wimco St Barth Properties, focuses solely on villa rentals and concierge service, the real estate sales arms of the formerly independent companies are now completely separate: Sotheby's Real Estate is now a separate unaffiliated company, run by Tom Smyth, with Pascale Minarou Baudouin as the head broker; and Wimco Real Estate is now a separate unaffiliated company, run by Lionel Garaix, with Doug Foregger as commercial agent.

In terms of trends, Bennett says both companies had record years for villa rentals in 2022, and the outlook for 2023 is promising. "The season in St Barth opening earlier and lasting longer. It's become a 10-month season," he explains. "What we used to call 'the off season' is getting stronger and it doesn't appear that low-season demand is dependent on the island staging cultural events as a draw. The destination is so appealing in itself, with the Caribbean's best selection of restaurants, with no mega-resorts or cruise ships, and no jumbo jets landing every hour, all of which makes it seem far more intimate than other islands."

CLEAN-UP ON SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 13

The Saint Barth Clean-Up operation returns on Sunday, November 13. Every year, the Rotary Club organizes a big clean-up day, with numerous volunteers and the support of various local businesses. The meeting point is the parking lot in Saint Jean at 7am, and there is a barbecue at noon to thank everyone for their efforts. All helping hands are welcome. The elementary school in Lorient, as well as middle school students and hotel employees are ready to pitch in. The Rotary Club provides garbage bags as well as gloves, but if volunteers can possibly bring their own gloves that would be helpful.

ARGENTINEANS GONZALEZ SMITH CRUZ AND MARIANO HEUSER TO DEFEND THEIR TITLE

Thursday, November 17. The event already promises to be a great spectacle with high-level competition. Last year's winners, Argentinians Cruz Gonzalez Smith and Mariano Heuser will certainly be among the men to beat, especially following their recent third place at the class worlds in Clearwater, FL. But other F18 catamaran specialists will be nipping at their heels. Starting with Patrick Demesmaeker and Olivier Gagliani. Among the regulars of the regatta, these Belgians are preparing to race in the Cata-Cup for the twelfth time since their first participation in 2009. They could, if successful, become the first triple winners, as they won in 2015 and again in 2018. "For us, the St Barth Cata-Cup has become a don't miss event, almost a tradition," says Demesmaeker, the helmsman, crowned champion with Gagliani at the F18 Raid World Championships in Sweden last August. "We are very motivated this year. Trois pommes (editor's note: Olivier's nickname) is an incredible sailor. He proved that in Sweden this summer and in Saint Barth every year. I have absolute trust in him and I know that together, we have the means to do well, even if, once again, we will be facing incredible competition!" Such high-level competition as Cruz Gonzalez Smith and Mariano Heuser for example.

Additional Cata-Cup regulars will also be on the starting line, including Gurvan Bontemps and Benjamin Amiot, who continue to chase victory after placing second in 2016, 2019, and 2021. Or Tim Mourniac and Pierre-Yves Durand, to name just a few.

EXCEPTIONAL EVENINGS FOR THE 2023 MUSIC FESTIVAL

©Chris Lee Photographer

Since 1985, resident and visiting music lovers have annually anticipated the schedule for the Saint Barth Music Festival organized by Frances and Jill DeBroff. Once again, this year, for the 39th edition of the Festival (January 6-15), Frances and Jill have planned some exceptional evenings. It all starts on Friday, January 6 with a chamber music trio composed of renowned musicians. Israeli-American violinist Gil Shaham, who according to France Musique is "one of the most eminent violinists of our time," whose "impeccable technique along with his warmth and generosity of spirit have solidified the renown of this American master." Inon Barnatan, one of the most admired pianists of his generation whose third album, a true musical voyage, came out earlier this year on the PentaTone label. And finally on the cello, Kyril Zlotnikov, a musician from Belarus, who after studying with such virtuosos as Hillel Zori and Michael Khomitzer, participated in master classes and classes with such acclaimed musicians as Isaac Stern, Yo-Yo Ma, Natalia Gutman, Boris Pergamenschikov, Aldo Parisot, and Georgy Kurtag.

The Festival continues on Saturday, January 9, with the return of a special music event for children, plus more chamber music, an orchestral concert, and the popular opera evening. The closing concert on Sunday, January 15, will be jazz.

97133 Saint Barthélemy.

Initially planned for November 5 and 6, all of the Piteå Day activities, including the Gustavialoppet races, have been postponed until November 19 and 20, due to bad weather forecasts.

To celebrate the twinning of Saint Barthélemy and the Swedish town of Piteå, the events organized the Saint Barth Friends of Sweden Association (ASBAS) and the Collectivité will take place on Saturday, November 19 and Sunday, November 20.

Historically speaking, Saint Barthélemy was a Swedish possession from 1784 to 1878. In 1978, a century after the retrocession of the island to France, Saint Barth entered into a twinning agreement with town of Piteå, a Swedish fishing port just south of the Arctic Circle on the Baltic Sea.

The festivities commence on Saturday, November 19 at 11am with an ecumenical ceremony at the Swedish cemetery in Public. Saturday afternoon at 3pm is the Foulée des Ti-Mouns, a race for kids at the stadium in Saint Jean. "To put them in the spotlight," says Nils Dufau, president of ASBAS. "The prize ceremony will take place on Sunday after a few speeches on Sunday at 5pm in front of the Wall House, with the kids and parents present," he add.

Dufau also explains, "This year we are doing a double fishing tournament on Sunday. There is the Wahou Piteå Day trolling tournament with Daniel Magras. And deep-sea fishing organized by the Fishing Committee. The boats must arrive back at the Wall House by 4pm, at the latest, for the trolling and by noon for the deep-sea boats. Open departures."

These activities will be followed on Sunday with the 5-kilometer and 10-kilometer races of the legendary Gustavialoppet, which leaves the stadium in Saint Jean starting at 6:30am. The runners will be welcomed to the plaza at the Collectivité with a percussion concert performed by the students of St Barth Harmony. After the final runners cross the finish line, other activities (demonstrations, chess tournament, dominos...) begin on the dock by the Wall House, followed by the trophy ceremony. The day concludes with a concert by the local group, Freedom.

How To Sign Up

Registration for the races (children, adults, and all walkers) will be open November 16-18 at the reception desk at the Collectivité. To register, all runners must submit a medical certificate (less than one year old) stating they are fit for competitive running and a valid triathlon or track-and-field license. Other licenses are not acceptable. A fee of 20 euros per runner in the 5km and 10km races includes a number bib, Saturday night Pasta Party and the collation after the race. The fee is 5 euros for all walkers and includes the bib and collation. The minimum age is 18 for the 10km, and 16 for the 5km. Registration will not be accepted the day of the race.

For all participants who left their vehicles in Saint Jean, a shuttle bus service organized by the Collectivité will run from 8:30am to 10am.

AN ODE TO ST BARTH

This poem was submitted to The Weekly by an American visitor to the island, who shares his feelings and sentiments about the island.

Beautiful Sunny Saint Barthelemy.

The sun is shining so bright
And the sky is so beautiful
And blue and I'm in Saint Barthelemy to

And I'm having so much fun
In the morning sun
And the little birds are
Singing so passionately
And Saint Barthelemy is so
Beautiful and peaceful

And the sun is shining so
Bright and I'm watching the flowers
Dancing in the warm sunlight

And evening comes and the sun
Goes down and everyone having fun
In this beautiful old town

And the bright stars are
Shining so bright
And the rosy colored sky
Tonight and Saint Barthelemy
Is just so beautiful and peaceful tonight

And a warm gentle breeze
Blowing all day and my
Memories of sunny Saint Barthelemy
Will never fade away
And I'm drinking my whiskey
All through the starry night

And I'm in Saint Barthelemy tonight
And I'm smiling so bright
And having so much fun
I'm in the warm hot sun and my
Memories to cherish and so much
Happiness and so much joy and Everyone laughing with smiles on Their faces and I'll always
Remember my sunny days
In beautiful Saint Barthelemy
Every day.
